SEE HEALY FIRST GOVERNOR GENERAL OF IRISH STATE

VETERAN CHAMPION OF AUTONOMY GIVES CONSENT?

NEW DAIL ROLE

Provisional Parliament Will Become Lower House; Senate to be Formed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London.—The appointment of Timothy Healy as the first governor general of the Irish Free State is now regarded as a certainty. It is understood that the post was offered to him some time ago and that his final acceptance of the position depended only upon his acceptance.

That acceptance, according to several of the best informed authorities in Dublin, has now been given and the consensus of opinion Monday was that the announcement "that the king has been pleased to appoint" will immediately follow the declaration of His Majesty's assent to the Irish bill, which will pass its third and final reading in the house of lords Monday night.

The Dail Eireann meets Monday for the last time as the provisional parliament of Ireland. It assembles Tuesday as one of the three estates of the new Irish realm—the other two being the lords and commons of the governor general, and the senate, which has not yet been formed.

Reports from Dublin tell of the continued energy of the provisional government in forestalling any last minute attempts to prevent the final establishment of the free state administration.

Germans Beat Up 'Dry' Sandwichmen

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin.—Prohibitionists of Schoenberg, a Berlin suburb, having been prevented by the police from holding an open air meeting yesterday, organized a flock of sandwichmen to parade the streets with placards denouncing the evils of alcohol. This aroused the ire of the salaried police, who immediately employed a pounce upon the sandwichmen and gave them a severe beating. The police finally intervened and restored order but only after the body had been withdrawn from the streets.

DISMISS CHARGES AIMED TO WRECK MARKETING POOL

MILK MARKETING CO. CAN ENFORCE SAPIRO SERVICE CHARGE.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago.—The complaint filed against the Chicago Milk Marketing company for enforcing the Sapiro service charge was formally dismissed by the Wisconsin Department of Markets in a notice sent out Monday by Commissioner Edward Nordman.

While the decision carries the order of dismissal the order gives warning that the department will not tolerate any unfair methods to force or coerce non-pool members. The complaint was over the order of dismissal being signed by the Wisconsin Department of Markets in a notice sent out Monday by Commissioner Edward Nordman.

The theory of the complaint is that it is unjust to farmers outside of the pool to cut down non-members to the extent of the service charge amount.

HOLSTEIN, OWNED BY KEELEY, WEIGHS 115 LBS. AT BIRTH

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

A Holstein calf weighing 115 pounds an hour after birth is reported at the farm of William Keeley, Myers hotel, located on the Beloit-Janesville concrete road south of Beloit. The calf was born last Monday and noting the unusual size and ruggedness of the black and white youngster, the headman weighed the new-born.

The sire of the calf, stated to be one of the heaviest ever reported in the county is a purebred and the dam is a well-bred grade Holstein. William Keeley is in charge of the farm, which has been acquired eight years. There are 20 head of Holsteins on the farm and also a herd of 40 blonded Duroc-Jersey swine.

WHITWATER PIED PIPERS RID CITY OF 65,000 RODENTS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Whitewater.—The campaign against rats, waged at Whitewater by E. J. Seaver and A. F. Kraepelin, Beloit, since Oct. 25, is about to close, with the killing of 65,000 of the rodents.

The campaign included the planting of 321 pounds of most, bread, cheese, bananas and cornmeal in 197,700 baits. Many were shot with rifles. The exhaust of an automobile was directed through a hose into the subterranean runways at the slaughterhouse with good results.

The campaign cost $800, or about one cent for each rat.

Readjustments Expected to Reduce Postal Shortage, Congress Is Told.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington.—President Harding, in transmitting the annual federal budget for the next fiscal year, frankly told congress Monday that which there was to be any material reduction in government expenditures and in taxes in future years would depend largely on whether there was to be a curtailment or expansion of federal activity in research, improvement and development.

Placing the estimated government outlay in 1924 at $3,000,000,000, a decrease of about $500,000,000 as compared with estimates for this year, Mr. Harding called attention to the fact that two-thirds of this total was on account of practically fixed charges, such as the public debt, national defense, post office, and other services.

OBEY GOLDEN RULE IS COOPER'S PLEA

Be True to Self and Fellow Men, Appeal at Elks' Memorial.

"Fame, wealth and empty honors are sought at death's bed."
"Only comfort from being true to yourself, your fellows and your cause means anything at that time."
This was the gist of the memorial address delivered by Congressman Henry Allen Cooper, Racine, representing this district in Washington, at the annual services conducted by the Janesville Lodge No. 24, E. F. O., at the Elks' hall on Sunday afternoon.
The services were well attended.
Memories of departed lodge members were freshened when tributes were paid to their lives and accomplishments.

600 Day Respects
The services were made the more realistic by the sudden death but hours before of the subject, E. F. O.
Schaller, of this number.
Six hundred paid their respects to the dead while the officers impressively carried out the precepts of the order to bring the tributes of the order to the service and the virtues of the deceased upon the tablets of love and memory.

In stirring oratory, more like that of a preacher than of a legislator, Congressman Cooper gave the address.
"There will be a memorial meeting when your name will be called and your name will be called," he said,
"with a memory in your voice."
"Our brothers will wait in vain for your response."

Address is sincere.
The address by Congressman Cooper was sincere, not overdone and his coming from Washington to participate in the services here pleased the Elks and their guests. He detailed the true spirit of the lodge.
"It is our duty to be prepared," declared Mr. Cooper. "We are not parting forever. Rather we part in the world of sin and meet in a world of peace when we experience the mystery of death."

Reputation is what people think we are, not always what we really are in fact. The virtues outlined for true Elks and people were to be "truthful
in act and word, Golden Rule Justice,
and to be true to yourself, your fellows and your cause."

"Applause will not right any wrong
and too often honor is but thin air,"
he said.

The services were conducted by the lodge officers: T. G. Cunningham, exalted ruler; P. J. E. Wood, esteemed leading knight; George De Bruin, esteemed knight; C. E. Hammett, esteemed lecturer; knight; acting secretary, J. Sloan; treasurer, Fred H.

and L. A. Avery and the memorial committee, O. A. Oestreich, T. J. Snodgrass, Fred Howe, C. J. Douthett and preciated by the audience. Those in

CORRECTION

The reduced prices as announced in the reproduced telegram from the Cadillac Motor Car Company to
A. Kautner, in Saturday's Gazette, were in two instances incorrect, due to an error in type. The new reduced prices of the Touring Phantom and Roadster should have been $2385 instead of $2985 as printed, while the new reduced price of the Suburban Cadillac should have been $3990 instead of $3500 as printed, and so this correction is made. —Advertisement.

60 MEMBERS BOLT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Second Church Formed by Those Dissatisfied with Present Conditions.

Steps toward the organization and establishment of the Second Christian church of Janesville with 60 charter members were taken at a meeting Sunday afternoon. Selection of officers will not be made, it is announced, for two weeks up to which time all who desire will be given an opportunity to become charter members.

Services Next Sunday.
First services will be held next Sunday at a place to be decided by the new church. The organizers of the new church have several places under consideration for a temporary meeting place, which will serve until a permanent edifice is purchased or secured.

The charter members of the Second Christian church are dissenters
from the First church of Janesville which was established 10 years ago last April and in charge of which is the Rev. Leland J. Marton. Some new members are also claimed by the organizers.

Want No Indebtedness.
"Organization of the new church
is that the members may worship where the basis of the religion is the scripture, the word of God," it was stated by Frank Sadler, one of the organizers.

To have no indebtedness, is to be adhered to. It was explained that no indebtedness is to be incurred by the new organization until funds to cover it are in the treasury. All money raised is to be placed in a fund for the development of the work.

Many of the charter members have been prominently identified with the First Christian church's development and hold church offices in various capacities at the present time, it is said.

its only requirement was that the price should be not less than $1.50
and that the dealer has the responsibility for not having increased the base price. Suffice to say, however, that the marketing company accepted $1.50 as the base and was a party to the transaction which resulted in this amount, and this amount only, being paid to the outsider. But there is nothing in this as future service charge contracts are concerned, to require the company to wink at any such treatment being afforded to outsiders; and the company, if it wants to keep its position of opposing outsiders, will carry out its propounded theory of adding on the service charge to a price for milk (which ought to mean the market price)
and will not continue its conceivable practice of making the service charge plus, minimum base price equal only the market price, in consequence whereof the outsider, with the company's connivance, gets a price intolerably below the market price.

"The contention of the company,
therefore, that the service charge is not denied to outsiders, is a factor which moves us to discontinue the practice of making the service charge plus, minimum base price equal only the market price, in consequence whereof the outsider, with the com-

The Wall Flower

By MARION RUBINCAM

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING

Pandora Nicholson, a shy and self-conscious girl, is almost agony for her to meet new people or go into a room where there are new people. She lives as a "wall flower" with her Uncle Peter and Aunt Maude, and their daughter, Gladys, who is the belle of the little town of Janesville. Her own father, Jim, lives there as a doctor, but is impractical, unreliable, looked down on by his prosperous brother.

At a party where Dora is neglected, she meets Morton Newberry, a shy, studious boy, who seems attracted to her.

SULKINESS

Chapter 12

Dora found that there was a second person in the world to whom she could talk. Her feeling about it can best be described in the words she used once when making an entry in her diary. "Father used to say that a man must understand himself, before he can really understand other people," she wrote. "And there is a proverb that says 'Know Thyself.' I am trying to do this. But the more I know myself, the more faults I find. I thought that if I could only find out why I have these queer feelings about people, I could get over them. I think there is another proverb about self-knowledge being the first step toward success, but I'm not sure."

"I never feel strange with father which, of course, is natural enough. And now, in the space of a few weeks, I find myself talking to and using only initials in her diary as easily as to father. It's very odd. "I feel about myself like this. There are a great many things in me which want to come out in thoughts and words and actions, but I can't get them out. It's like having a door locked between me and the world. I try so hard and can't get it open. I know what I want to say, but I cannot make myself say it. I'm afraid of my own voice. I'm afraid of being laughed at, of being looked at. The door opens with father and now it opens with Mr. Morton. That one entry, she came very close to analyzing her whole problem.

Morton came to the Nicholson house the Sunday before the dance. Gladys was alone. She said that she had driven away to spend the day with some friends and Jim had to go to the farm.

Morton came in, his sunny wide grin and about half shut eyes showing a bit of embarrassment.

"I want Dora to come for a walk with me," he announced to Gladys, who answered the door.

"Oh, very well," she said, "I'll send her to you. Gladys went out of the room, rather frowning out of the room."

Dora was reading to Grandma White.

"Your new beau's down stairs waiting for you," she said, running her syllables together so her sentence sounded like one long word. "Oh," Dora looked distressed.

"Then—"

"Wasn't coming too," Gladys threw herself into a chair with a grand show of indifference.

"Oh! Dora looked more distressed. "But please come," she said, "I'm sick in bed with a cold. The reason why the popular Gladys happened to be alone."

"Huh! And listen to Jim talk law cases! Not much, I prefer my own company to that of others I could mention."

It ended by Dora going. They walked out the door leading toward the farm, to meet Jim and come back with him.

"I like this road," Morton said once. "I've about eight special walks near here that I'd like to take again before I go."

"Go!" echoed Dora, who felt the blood run from her heart suddenly. "Where are you going—and when?"

"Oh, never, perhaps. I just talk about it now and then because I want to go. You see, no one talks to me—no one goes to the city to study law so I can graduate from a real college and take my bar examinations. But something always happens when I'm here—lack of money, or usually, or else mother is afraid to have me leave."

"But I pretend I'm going to go—that keeps me in a constant state of pleasant expectation." He smiled a little. He expected to be thought foolish.

"I do that sometimes too," Dora surprised him by saying. Then, wanting to know more about him, she asked:

"Why do you want to be a lawyer?"

"Don't know—but I used to like reading law cases and I was a child, and I liked the study of the Constitution best of everything in history. Just wanted to be a lawyer. I suppose," she explained, "I'm the sort of mind that begins at the top of a difficulty and works along down into it, and sees things related to it. That's what's known as a 'top-down' mind. I ought to be a specialist, a consulting lawyer only."

"Why?"

"Because I get confused when thinking in public, and I stutter. That's fatal."

"When they got home, Gladys was in a state of rage.

"Grandma's got a sick headache and no one here to look after her but me," she said angrily.

"She worried me into a headache," the old lady protested tearfully. "Why didn't you go for a walk? No one has to stay with me."

"They do, too!" Gladys contradicted, furious at having her cause of grievance removed thus. "But I can't do anything—and if Dora will go out all Sunday and leave me alone—"

All Dora's sense of pleasure left her again.

Tomorrow—Problems.

Dinner Stories

"Ah shunh does pty you," said a colored pugilist to his opponent as they squared off. "Ah was born with boxin' gloves on."

"Maybe you was," retorted the other, "and Ah reckon you'se goin' to die de same way."

"It was the first time I had ever driven a car," foebly explained the victim of the accident. "I got to going pretty fast and forgot how to stop. I looked ahead and saw a bridge rushing to meet me. I tried to turn out to let the bridge pass and that is all I know about it."—Country Gentleman.

While making exterior scenes for "Fanny," Foxing's new play, the entire cast stopped at a roadside near New York for luncheon. The group sat around one table, while plainly indicated the proprietor of the establishment, as believed in Barnum's famous axiom. Ernest McKay, one of the youngsters appearing in the picture, looked around and noticed the frowning countenances of the other players and then burst out laughing.

Funny Devine, another child actor, falling to see the humor in the situation, looked up and said: "It's all right for you, Ernest; you can laugh. You can't read these prices—A. N. Telegraph."

A farmer was driving a load of hay along a narrow road, when behind him came a man with a horse and buggy. The farmer drove out of the way to let him pass. A moment later along came a young fellow on a bicycle, who rode to the farmer to let him pass. "Hey, there! Pull out and let me by!"

"Oh, I dunno if I'm in any hurry," the farmer replied.

"You seemed in a hurry to let the other fellow pass."

"Yes, because his horse was calling my hay. There's no danger of you eating it."

"Oh, I dunno if I'm in any hurry," the farmer replied.

jumped from the pony cart. Being a bone in the forearm is not bad as might be and Master Charles is brave and doing well.

New Holton Home
The new house that Mr. Holton has been building on Harmony Hill farm, 5 miles northwest in town of Sugar Creek, is ready for occupancy. Carl Hugg and family are moving in, after living in a part of the big barn during the summer. Mrs. Holton is the architect of this house with conveniences and original touches that appeal to housekeepers. Oak floors and splendid finishing throughout make it one of the best houses in this section. There is a water softener apparatus in the basement which is novel in country homes.

Walworth County at the Show
Walworth County is represented at the International Livestock Show, Chicago, Dec. 2-9 by three herds of swine. Fred Vaughn, Lyons, is showing Hampshires, A. D. Sharon—The Woman's club met Friday, with Miss Edith Smith. The house was prettily decorated with baby chrysanthemums and carnations. Forty-seven were present, including 23 members. The subject of the program was "Ellis Island," told by Mrs. Thomas Jones, who was on the ship when it was first opened. Mrs. Lebbens Woods, music; "Narcissus," Novin; Thelma Reuter, music; "Shepherd Song," Iva Gil; "Immigration Problems of Today," Mrs. Thomas Jones; and Mrs. Smith's original story, first chapter written by Mrs. W. D. Burton. A little sketch, "Visitors of Ellis Island," was put on. Lillian, Mrs. Walter Foster, Goddess of Liberty, Thelma Reuter, Marjory Wilcox, Emma and Lorena Howard, Marie Jurgens and Dorothy Salisbury accompanied foreign children who had just arrived at Ellis Island, and were dressed in various foreign costumes. The following represented foreigners: Esther James, Lois Spicer, James and Howard Larson, Lena and Janette Gile, Evelyn Peterson, Mary Johnson and World's Woods. The club programs are very entertaining and the club members are trying to live up to their slogan "Every member at every meeting." A moving picture, with lecture on the "Passion Play," will soon be sponsored by the club for the benefit of the library.

SCHOOL FOR THE DEAF.
(By Gazette Correspondent.)
State School for the Deaf, Delavan.

State civil service commission has informed Supt. A. Emory Bray that of the large number of applicants for the position of fieldworker for the state school, the following three rank highest in the order named: Cassie E. Lewis, Dodgeville, for the past two years welfare worker of Iowa county; Iva L. Saunders, Albion, principal of the state graded school at Albion; and Alice B. Hodgson, Madison, a teacher in the public schools at Mazomanie. The position has accordingly been offered to Miss Lewis, who, however, has been given a substantial increase of salary in her position in Iowa, since taking the examination, and it is doubtful if she will accept. Miss Alice Steinkie has been substituting for Mrs. Frank Thomas this week, owing to the illness of the latter's little girl—Miss Gertrude Staub, former matron of the state school, spent Tuesday visiting the institution. The state board of control has authorized Supt. Bray to take out the walls between the old training, mending and mangle rooms, and convert the room into a teachers' dining room—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Neuman, Fall River, and spending their Thanksgiving holidays with Mrs. Neuman's brother, Prof. P. J. Neuman and family of the Hagerty apartment. The state board of health permitted Supt. Bray to allow children from near-by places to spend Thanksgiving at home.

SOMETHING HAS HAPPENED IN CHICAGO

Something of Interest to a Few Men Only in This City but of Exceptional Importance to Those Few

You people of this town may not realize it, but your city is well known throughout the United States. No matter where you travel, people recognize the name of your town as you mention it, and comment favorably upon it.

This fame of your city is due to the activities of a comparatively small group of your people—a group of presidents, vice-presidents, sales managers, advertising managers, boards of directors, in control of nationally known products are responsible for your being nationally known.

This small group of men is of especial importance to certain large interests in the city of Chicago and therefore this thing that has happened in the city of Chicago is of especial importance to this small group of men.

The thing that has happened is that the Chicago Evening American now sells more papers to the people of Chicago and surrounding territory than any other evening paper published in Chicago.

A few of you gentlemen may recall the fact that when the Chicago Evening American increased its price from 2 cents to 3 cents, literally scores of advertisers and advertising agencies felt that its circulation would be cut at least in half.

Now, to their amazement, at its 3-cent price, it has not only not lost any readers, but has so materially increased its distribution that for a year past it has had the largest circulation in Chicago's great evening paper field, and also the second largest 3-cent evening paper circulation in America.

Today, nearly 400,000 families prefer the Chicago Evening American to any other Chicago evening paper, and show their preference by paying $1,250,000 more a year to get it.

So it must be a good newspaper.

You few gentlemen who are responsible for the very important advertising expenditure that comes out of this town must be interested in these facts.

Other matters, such as an analysis of the character of this enormous circulation are equally interesting and will be taken up next week. The facts that will be presented will give you plenty of food for thought.

Please remember that an Evening American representative who really knows marketing and the Chicago market—not merely an advertising salesman—can always reach your desk within twenty-four hours after you write us.
